MEDITATION FOR THE SUNDAY OF THE LAST JUDGMENT
The past two Sundays spoke to us of God’s patience and limitless compassion, of His readiness to accept every sinner who returns to Him. On this third Sunday, we are powerfully reminded of a complementary truth: no one is so patient and so merciful as God, but even He does not forgive those who do not repent. The God of love is also a God of righteousness, and when Christ comes again in glory, He will come as our judge. ‘Behold the goodness and severity of God’ (Romans 11:22). Such is the message of Lent to each of us: turn back while there is still time, repent before the End comes. In the words of the Great Canon:

The end draws near, my soul, the end draws near;
Yet thou dost not care or make ready.
The time grows short, rise up: the Judge is at the door.
The days of our life pass swiftly, as a dream, as a flower.

This Sunday sets before us the “eschatological, i.e., the last times” dimension of the Great Fast: the Great Fast is a preparation for the Second Coming of the Savior, for the eternal Passover in the Age to Come. Nor is the judgment merely in the future. Here and now, each day and each hour, in hardening our hearts towards others and in failing to respond to the opportunities we are given of helping others, we are already passing judgment on ourselves.

Bishop Kallistos Ware, The Lenten Triodion, The Meaning of the Great Fast, pp. 45-46
